A quick preview of our new products
All these products are available to ship this week

The DB227 is a brand new product. It is a passive mixer that will allow the user the ability to add a source signal to a microphone level XLR. It is a simple passive unit, but I would recommend clicking the below link to our website to read more about it. The manual explains what the DB227 is capable of. In short some practical applications are if you need to add a source signal to an input that you are already sending a microphone to this is the best way to do it. It also functions as a Podcast mixer meaning that if you are recording to a small device like your phone (or other small recording device) you could use this unit to allow the microphone and a source signal to be mixed to one output. It also has switchable output controls for quickly turning on or off the mic and source material separately.

The new CT1 has been upgraded to the CT1 Pro. The new CT1 Pro featured a custom molded 9V batter compartment and a better chassis design putting the jacks on the sides of the unit where they are more accessible for proper function of the unit. The CT1 PRO has all the same functions as the previous version. We are discontinuing the old version and as of now only the CT1 PRO is available for sale. The barcode and all information sheets for the CT1 PRO have changed so let all your dealers know that the skew and everything associated with the old CT1 are now different. We are treating the new CT1 PRO as a completely new product release.

The MM11 has been a very successful product for us, but ever since we released it years ago people have been asking for a version that will do "PUSH TO TALK". The regular MM11 will only function as push to mute. The new MM11 Pro will do both. A small slide switch located on the left side of the unit allows the user to select between "PUSH TO TALK" or "PUSH TO MUTE" functions. We will still have both units available for sale (MM11 and MM11 PRO). The regular MM11 with its push to mute only function, and the new PRO version that will do it all. There is a increased price of $5.00 to dealer cost of the new PRO version. Yes we know this is a little confusing, but we wanted to offer the customers what they have been asking for.
